BORAH SAYS IT IS OLD LEAGUE WITH NEW NAME

Idaho Senator Launches Attack on President's "Association of Nations"

UNLIMITED POWERS

Asks Why The 43 Nations Ratifying Old League of Nations Should Abandon It For New.

Washington, Nov. 28.—In the first specific attack to come from Senatorial sources, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, one of the "irreconcilables" in the Versailles Treaty fight, denounced President Harding's program for an "association of nations" to follow the present Arms Conference.

Senator Borah asserts that from what can be gathered about the proposed association, which has not yet been reduced to form, it is merely "the old League of Nations under another name." He asked why the 43 nations ratifying the League should now abandon it for an association.

Senator Borah's statement in full follows:

"The proposed association of nations has not been reduced to form nor yet defined. But from what one can gather here and there it is the old League of Nations under another name. It will be engaged in precisely the same kind of work and doing the same kind of things that were proposed by the League. It is not what you call it, but what it is, that counts. Fundamentally and is the practical workings of the association of nations it will not differ from the League of Nations. I see no reason therefore, why the 43 nations which have signed the League should be asked to abandon it and transfer their names to an association of nations. If we want to go into this kind of a proposition there is no reason why we should not experiment with the one they have It is claimed by the advocates of the League that the present League has been of much service to Europe. If so much service to Europe. If so there is no reason for asking Europe to scrap the old one and taking on a new one. If we are going into Europe, we ought to go in. If not, we ought not to be handing her a new league every 90 days. She will likely conclude that after the next Presidential election she would have another league. I see no difference whatever in joining the present League and joining another league by a new name.

"The United States operates under a written constitution. Great Britain has no written constitution. One of the arguments being put forth now in favor of the association of nations is that Mr. Wilson made a mistake in giving his plan a written constitution that we should adopt the British idea and undertake to conduct the League or an association of nations without any written constitution or written covenant whatever. In other words, that the new association will consist of representatives of different governments coming together with no limitation upon their jurisdiction or power or authority other than their own discretion. A conclave of diplomats sitting behind closed doors with nothing to direct or limit their powers save their own will and discretion would be a rather interesting proposition. I am inclined to think that if the American people choose a league they will choose one which has its powers defined, or, at least, an attempt to define them, rather than trust their destiny to th unbridled discretion of a few men.

"Lloyd George suggested some time ago, according to the press dispatches, that the Anglo-Japanese alliance be extended to an Anglo-American-Japanese alliance and that this alliance take upon itself the duty of administering China. Now, it is said that such an alliance would be wholly objectionable to the American people, but that under an association of nations the same thing could be effectuated and accomplished It is also being urged that while the people of the United States would not be willing to form an alliance with France and Great Britain to guarantee the security of France, the same thing could be accomplished under an association of nations without any constitution

"It is also urged that the international debt could be more successfully manipulated through the association. All of which things simply disclose that the association of nations is another name for the League with some additional and more extensive powers annexed.

"It does not appear as yet whether we are to have two leagues or one league and one association or whether it is to be that the league organized by Mr. Wilson will be merged into the association organized by President Harding. It will be very difficult to get rid of the present League unless the Versailles treaty is radically modified but I presume we will know more when the matter is reduced to such concrete from as will enable us to grasp it or at least try to do so.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Nov. 28.—The Chinese delegation to the International Disarmament conference have undoubtedly held the center of the stage in the majority of the deliberations of the committees and subcommittees created by the conference for the purpose of untangling the knotty problems of the Far Eastern situation.

China, for many years has been governed by foreign nations, and it is asking to be permitted to manage its own affairs. Their laws, as outlined by their spokesman, are held to be of the highest quality, and the conferees have agreed to surrender all extra-territoriality rights immediately provided they are executed according to the standard of the code submitted by them. They have also demanded the withdrawal of all foreign postoffices and request that they be allowed to handle the entire postal system.

Secretary of State Hughes, heading the American delegation in the conference, when asked by the Gazette Correspondent as he merged from the White House conference, said that there would probably not be another open session of the full conference for at least a week, or until the technical experts, working on the Hughes formula for naval disarmament have something definite to report, or the committees engaged in the discussion of Far Eastern problems, have decided on some basis for the solution of those perplexing problems. It will therefore be impossible, until such a time as the full conference does convene to determine the attitude of the various foreign countries on disarmament. Far Eastern questions, and methods of warfare.

M. Viviani, spokesman for the French delegation to the conference, refused to make any comment today on Lord Curzon's speech, when asked by newspaper correspondents. Unofficials, the authoritative French views however, are that Great Britain is trying to dominate the conference so that they may gain the supremacy of all Europe." The British rejoinder is that "France is determined to break up the conference because of its lack of co-ordination with the Versailles treaty:"

It is thought in some quarters that President Harding has initiated this conference with a view to eventually forming an Association of Nations, which he advocated in his recent political campaign.

The American proposal that there be an assemblage of all nations, including German, every year for the discussion and solution of world problems, has met with general favor, with the possible exception of France. It is thought that the French objection is due to their resentment of the inclusion of Germany in the project.

New Gym Equipment

The Pioneers of Alexandria are rejoicing over the arrival of some new gymnasium apparatus that has just reached the Westminster Building, where their gymnasium classes are held each week. Four dozen pairs of dumb bells and a new spring board are the latest acquisition to the equipment.

Two eight pound medicine balls, a large mat, a set of jumping standards, and four dozen wands were already in use, having been secured last year. The spring board is perhaps the greatest delight of youngsters as they get more real fun out of it than perhaps anything else. The apparatus will all be used for the men's classes as well as for those for women and girls.

SMASH-UP PROBED

Driver Of Auto Fined $25 In Police Court Today

An investgaton of an automobile belonging to an Alexandrian striking a team of horses belonging to Octave Delvingo and wife of Fairfax county, was investigated today in the police court. The defendant in the case was absent and the court afer hearing the evidence imposed a fine of $25 for reckless driving.

Attorney Howard W. Smith appeared for the complainant. According to Delvingo he and his wife at the time of the accidnet, which occurred several weeks ago they were en route to the Washington market with a load of produce. They were on the pike within the corporate limits of the city when the machine struck them. There were two or three women and several men in the machine they said. Their horse was so badly injured that the animal had to be shot and the wagon was badly smashed.

Bing Trial Tomorrow

Willie Bing, colored, charged with shooting at Policeman James Talbot the night of October 14 will be tried before a jury in the corporation court tomorrow morning, Judge Robinson Moncure presiding. A special jury has been summoned for this cause.

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

Office of the Postmaster General,
Washington, Nov. 22, 1921.

To the Boys and Girls of the United States:

(Postmasters should deliver this message or have it presented to the school authorities so that it may be read in the public schools Monday, December 5, and published, without cost, in local newspapers, if possible.)

Christmas is almost here.

Your great postoffice department has a big job ahead and needs your help.

Think what it means to be Santa Claus to our 100,000,000 people and to deliver Christmas parcels to every family in this great country within the short space of a few days and without disappointment.

It can be done, and we're going to do it if we may have your help. I want to enlist the active assistance of every boy and girl in the schools of our country in getting parcels mailed this week to relieve the rush that comes directly before Christmas.

Will you go home today and take this message to your parents and friends:

"Our postmaster has asked us to mail our Christmas parvels this week, for, unless we do, Uncle Sam's load may be so heavy the last few days before Christmas that he won't be able to deliver all the presents by Christmas eve."

The parvels must be well wrapped and tied and addressed plainly in order that they may arrive in good condition with their Christmasy appearance unspoiled. You can put on your packages, "Do not open until Christmas."

And, there must be a number on your house and a mail receptacle, too, for, if there isn't, Santa Claus's messenger, your letter carrier, may not be able to find the house where the present belongs.

There are some other things, too, in which you can all assist in improving the mail service and in saving our great government millions of dollars a year that is now wasted because of our carelessness—yours and mine.

Every day that you drop a letter in the mail box 40,000,000 letters are already pushing and jamming through the postal machinery. One letter a day for each family of five persons in the United States is given to Uncle Sam to deliver.

When you send a parcel to the postoffice for mailing any day there are about 8,000,000 other parcels ahead of yours passing through the postal hopper. This is in ordinary days; at Christmas time it is multiplied many times.

One family in about every ten puts a badly addressed letter in the mail every day. This mixes up over 2,000,000 half addressed letters with the 20,000,000 fully addressed letters. That means that the fully addressed letters must wait on the slow moving poorly addressed letters just like the larger boys and girls are delayed by a bunch of "bad kids" tagging along.

You boys and girls can help the postal service and save your father some money, because he has to help pay the cost of searching addresses on letters and parcels sent out by this one careless and thoughtless family in every ten.

First find out if your family is the careless one, then bear in mind that your letters must be handled by skilled mail distributors standing in postoffices and on swaying postal cars of a mile-a-minute mail trains, often under poor light.

The address on every letter, card, or package must be correct, complete, and legible, including the house number and name of street, and the 'from' address should be in the upper left hand corner so that the mail will be returned to you in case it is not delivered. Do not abbreviate names of states, because so many look alike when abbreviated.

Put the proper amount of postage on your letters and wrap the parcels carefully. Avoid fancy writing, which causes postoffice clerks and letter carriers to stop and study, and thus lose time. Make the address pen and ink or typewriter and lightplain and easily read, and always use colored envelopes, so as to save the eyes of the postoffice clerks. Do not use envelopes of unusual size. The little ones that are so frequently used for cards and notes at Christmas and other holiday times cause an untold amount of trouble and labor, as they will not fit our canceling machines and must therefore be canceled by hand. Because of their size and tendency to slip out of a package, these small envelopes are more likely to be overlooked or lost.

Mail your letters and packages early in the day, because this avoids overloading and delaying mail at the end of the day.

Your local postmaster and your teachers will tell you more about the postal service.

Do these things, and you will win the grateful appreciation of the people in your postoffice and especially of your postmaster general, Will H. Hays.

P. S.—Don't forget to mail Christmas packages this week.

Concert Postponed

Owing to unforeseen contingencies it has been found necessary to postpone the Old Folks concert to have been given in St. Paul's Church tomorrow night. Due notice of the date for the concert will be announced later in the Gazette.

TAX PAYMENTS SHOW DROP OF MANY MILLIONS

Decrease of $812,579,486—Cost of Collection Much Higher

LIQUOR BIG ITEM

Prohibition And Narcotic Law Enforcement Costs Nearly Seven Millions.

Washington, Nov. 28—Tax receipts of the Government during the fiscal year 1921 decreased nearly $1,000,000,000 as compared with the previous year, while the cost of collection increased 32 cents for each $100, according to the annual report of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, made public last night by Commissioner Blair.

Collections by the bureau during the past fiscal year totaled $4,595,000,765, against $5,407,580,251 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1920, a decrease of $812,579,486, or 15 per cent.

The cost of administering the internal revenue laws for the year, the report said was $40,203,716, or 87 cents for each $100 collcted, compared with 55 cents for the preceeding year. However, the report adds, included in the expenditures was $6,899,407 for the administration of the prohibition and narcotic laws and $130,000 for the enforcement of the child-labor tax law, which deducted from the total, leaves $33,174,309, or an equivalent of 72 cents for each $100 in taxes collected.

Of the total taxes collected during the past year income and profits taxes aggregated $3,228,137,673, compared with $3,956,936,033 in 1920, and miscellaneous collections totaled $1,366,863, 091, against $1,450,644,248, in 1920.

The principal decreases in these taxes were:

On alcoholic liquors, $57,247,720; tobacco manufactures, $40,589,969; excise taxes, $38,538,121; corporation capital stock, $11,949,767, and stamp taxes, $11,879,813.

These decreases, the report said, were materially offset by increases on estate tax, $50,407,697; transportation and telegraph, $12,164,326, and admission and dues, $13,972,093.

Collections under the penalty provisions of the National Prohibition act during the year totaled $2,152,387. Receipts from distilled spirits, including wines, during 1921 aggregated $82,598,065, compared with $97,905,275 in 1920, while fermented liquors produced $25,363, against $41,965,874.

During the fiscal year 1921 there were produced from materials other than fruit 8,365,658 taxable gallons of distilled spirits, a decrease of 13,250,133 gallons from 1920, while 34,993,154 gallons were removed from bond, an increase of 6,772,245 gallons over 1920.

Liquids containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol produced at breweries and dealcoholizing plants during year aggregated 193,336,763 gallons, compared with 286,169,680 during the previous year. while the quantity of cereal beverages containing less than one-half of one per cent of alcohol produced during the year aggregated 285,825,830 gallons.

Production of wine and cordials for the year amounted to 19,551,595 gallons, and at the end of the year there were 27,604,896 gallons in bond, as compared with 17,677,370 gallons on June 30, 1920.

Increase in the number of tax collection districts from 64 to 74 was recommended by Commissioner Blair as a means of increasing the efficiency of the Internal Revenue Service During the last 19 years he declared the work of the Revenue Bureau has been entirely transformed, and the number of taxpayers filing returns has increased from approximately 600,000 to a total of 9,000,000 annually.

POLICE COURT

A man arrested by Policeman Durrer charged with violating the traffic regulations by passing a street car while it was dscharging passengers, was fined $50 in the police court today. VIRGINIA NEWS PARAGRAPHED

Newport News—E. W. Milstead, former member of the House of Delegates and for many years city sergeant of Newport News, in the earlier days of the city, is out for the office of Commissioner of Fisheries under the Trinkle administration.

The Gym Classes of the Y. M. C. A., will be held today in the Westminster building as per the usual schedule. Secretary Wallace states that he expects many new members in the classes this week.

Miss Hattie L. Mitchell, of this city, and Mr. Frank Packard, of Washington, D. C., were married in Baltimore, Md., on November 21. After the bridal tour they will reside in Washington.

Winchester—Mrs. William B. Symons, of Clarke County, whose husband, a Norfolk and Western Railway freight brakesman, was killed at White Post about four years ago, has accepted a compromise of $1,200 instead of pressing a suit for $25,000 against the railway company, according to word received here.

Newport News—Foreign freight agents representing virtually all the eastern railroads will hold their convention in this city December 2, to be entertained here by shipping intrests, banking interests and merchants. While here local interests will point out the facilities of this port in an endeavor to impress the freight men of the carriers with the advantages of shipping through Newport News.

Newport News—A peculiar happening in the shipping line, and one that does not occur often is the arrival of the British steamship Ethelstan from England yesterday morning with a cargo of coal to burker. The Ethelstan is taking the coal to Cuba. A haul of coal from England requires eighteen to twenty days, and from Hampton Roads three or four days. The Ethelstan expects to bring a cargo of sugar back to the British Isles and is carrying its coal cargo on a ballast basis.

Richmond—Plans have been perfected for the banquet to be given Governor-Elect E. Lee Trinkle by the Richmond First Club at Murphy's Hotel next Tuesday night. Besides the club, representatives of the Rotary Club, Retail Merchants' Association, the Kiwanis Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Advertisers' Club, the American Legion and the Richmond Clearing House Association will be present. A representative of each of these organizations will deliver a two minute speech of welcome to Senator Trinkle. It is said he will reply in a ten minute speech.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Big Crowd of Firemen Respond Despite Heavy Rain

A chimney fire at the residence of Commonwealth's Attorney Howard W. Smith, 208 North Columbus street, caused a fire alarm at 6:50 o'clock last night. Mr. Smith telephoned for a fire extinguisher and instead he got the fire department. The blaze was subdued with chemical extinguishers before any material damage was done. Despite the heavy downpour of rain at the time, there was a large turnout of firemen.

OPEN AT NIGHT

Treasurer Robinson To Be At Office Tomorrow And Wednesday Nights

For the accomodation of persons unable to call during the day City Treasurer Thomas W. Robinson will keep his office open tomorrow and Wednesday night from 7 o'clock on till all persons desiring to pay are accomodated. Beginning Thursday, December 1, a penalty of five per cent is added to all state taxes which have not been paid. Already a large number of property owners have paid their state taxes and the office force of the treasurer has been kept busy with the work.

REVIVAL SERVICES

The services at the First Baptist Church yesterday were of a most inspiring character and fine crowds were present morning and evening. Rev. W. H. Brannock came over from Baltimore in the afternoon and was greeted very cordially at the splendid meeting of the B. Y. P. U. A surprising number were present in spite of the downpour of rain. Mr. Brannock spoke at the evening service from the incident of the Gaderene demoniac, when Jesus bade him "go home and tell how great things the Lord had done for him" It was a service full of spiritual power. The preacher is a young man but is a most effective preacher. His use of illustrations shows not only skill but a great heart power. A large number of the leading men and women of the church came to the front, they expressing a determination to reconsecrate themselves and give themselves whole heartdly to the work. Already the feeling is prevalent that the revival has begun A number of church organizations are planning for service. Members of all churches are invited. It is hoped that the meetings may open promptly at 8 o'clock or before.

THEATRE BURNS IN NEW HAVEN 4 DEAD, 80 HURT

Death List From Destruction of Moving Picture House May Be Increased

EXITS INADEQUATE

Spectators In Panic Trample Each Other In Mad Rush For The Open.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 28.—The Rialto Theatre, a moving-picture house, was burned last night, and at least four persons lost their lives and more than four score received hospital treatment. Some of the patients may die.

Fire Marshal Perkins late last night said other bodies might be found in the ruins by daylight, although a search with lanterns by firmen and police revealed only two bodies. The other bodies were at the hospitals.

Several of the injured are Yale students.

For two hours while the flames rose higher than the Hotel Taft opposite, in College street, it was feared the death list would be heavy.

Many in the audience anticipated the first cry of fire, which followed appearance of smoke in the lobby of the theatre. Panic-stricken men, women and children rose almost in a body and made for every conceivable exit. Scores were trampled on, clothes were torn and faces, hands, arms and legs were torn and cut in the mad rush to get out of the burning building. Exits were inadequate to care for the frantic mob, converted into almost beastial fury by the onrush of smoke, followed by flames.

Of frame construction, the theatre and its fittings made splendid fuel for the flames. One Yale student, among the many in the audience, who managed to make his way out on one of the fire escapes, declared that at least 40 were trapped in the burning structure.

It was with difficulty that the fire was stopped from spreading to the Hyperion Theatre, the rear of which is near that of the Rialto But shortly after 9 o'clock Fire Chief Fancher announced that he believed the fire was under control. It was then burning in two adjoining business blocks.

When the firemen arrived in response to three alarms the interior of the theatre was a mass of flames. Several lines of hose were turned into the burning structure. But, despite efforts of firemen and others, it was impossible to make a way into the seething furnace of flames. Persons who were among the last to escape said there were others helpless on the floor. Others declared their belief that there were a few who did not get out. The injured who were dragged from the struggling mass in front of the theatre were helped to the hotel across the street, to the Elks' Club, Union League and others to hospitals near by. Some of them were attended by physicians, while others more seriously hurt were taken to the hospitals in ambulances or automobiles. Many injured made their way to their homes.

Many Yale students were among the audience and some of these aided the helpless in their attempts to get out of the burning structure. Witnessess, however, told of several students seen jumping from the galleries into the struggling mass of humanity in the body of the treatre.

Police reserves were called to control the crowds who stood in a pouring rainstorm outside the theatre, attracted by the three alarms of fire. Anxious relatives and friends of persons within the theatre fought with the police to get within the fire lines. Crowds pursued the injured to the hospitals and beseiged the doors to get news of relatives possibly hurt. At the New Haven Hospital, where two score were taken, it was necessary to call the police to control the crowds outside.

The theatre, which was a remodeled church of many years standing, proved fuel for the flames. According to the city officials, the fire laws had been complied with in the remodeling of the burned structure.

There are three theories of the start of the blaze. One is that it started from incense that was burned on the stage in connection with the showing of the film, another is that the blaze was caused by crossed wires, while a third attributes the start of the holocaust to an explosion of some kind said to have been heard in the cellar of the theatre.

Lawrence W. Carroll, manager of the theatre, was arrested at 10.30 last night by order of Coroner Eli Mix who is investigating the cause of the fire.

Mrs. George Uhler and daughter Miss Katherine Griffith Uhler, have returned to their home in this city after a visit to Mrs. Uhler's son, Mr. Lloyd Uhler, at his home in Pittsburg.

The Civic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. All members are urged to be present.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

The census figures just issued as to automobile accidents in the United States during the year 1920, make interesting reading. The number of deaths resulting from accidents caused by automobiles and other motor vehicles, excluding motorcycles, was 9,103. This represents a death rate of 10.4 per 100,000 population, as against 9.4 in 1919, 9.1 in 1918, 8.9 in 1917, 7.3 in 1916, and 5.8 in 1915. The increase during the five years, therefore, has amounted to four-fifths.

In the different states the number of deaths in 1920, varies from 22 in Delaware to 1,410 in New York. The rate per 100,000 population runs from .7 in North Carolina, the lowest, to 14 in California. Virginia makes a favorable showing, having only 2.1 persons killed out of each 100,000 people.

In the cities, the total number killed during the same year was 4,116, nearly half of the entire number in the United States. New York city tops the list with 773 or more than two a day. Chicago comes next with 472. Philadelphia, third, with 226. Houston, Texas, has the lowest number of the 66 cities tabulated, with only 8. New York's rate per 100,000 population, was 13.6; Chicago's was 17.3; Philadelphia's was 12.3; while Houston's was 5.7. Richmond, Virginia, had 12 deaths, or 6.9 per 100,000 population; Norfolk had 20 deaths, or 17 per 100,000; and Baltimore had 97 deaths, or a ratio of 13.1. Washington, D. C., had 50 deaths, or a ratio of 11.3.

Alexandria is to be congratulated on its favorable showing, the more so, because the amount of auto-vehicle travel is much in excess of that of other cities of the same size. We venture to say that no city of its size in the country has fewer auto-motive accidents in the course of a year than our own. We believe that this is due almost if not quite entirely, to the vigilance and efficency of our police force. Chief Goods deserves all praise for his admirable administration, and the Gazette freely tenders him its congratulations herewith.

WAR MATERIALS FOR ROAD BUILDING

Surplus war materials to the value of nearly 150 million dollars have been turned over by the War Department to the Department of Agriculture, to be distribhted to the various states through the Bureau of Public Roads. Under the Wadsworth Kahn bill this surplus war material is sent to the states with the sole proviso that it be used only for road-building purposes. The material accumulated during the war for use in France has thus been diverted to a very essential object in peace-times. The values of the material thus distributed, vary from $229,000 for little Rhode Island to 7 million dollars for Texas.

Virginia's allotment is figured at $2,920,000. Among the supplies, distributed and to be distributed, are 27,198 motor vehicles, mostly trucks; 172 locomotives, of all sizes; 25,000 gross tons of rails; more than 4,500,000 pounds of powder, and nearly 10,000 tons of TNT. Congressman Moore was duly vigilant in seeing that Virginia got her share. We trust our local authorities will bestir themselves to see that the Alexandria territory now obtains its just proportion of the machinery and materials that have been allotted to the state.

The Lee Memorial Movement

The five years' work of Lee the Educator fittingly crowns and supplements the five stormy years of Lee the Soldier. And undoubtedly, when the long roll is finally called and his contributon to the uplift and betterment of the human race is finally assessed and determined, his work at Lexington will outshine and outweigh all the more transient glories of his military career.

Above the battle-smoke and dust of conflict of that stormy era of war and reconstruction his majestic figure has been steadily rising in the eyes of the world as the purest and loftiest and most symmetrical character yet evolved by our Christian civilization. Yet till now the South has strangely neglected to rear to her greatest hero any adequate memorial.

The Lee Memorial Movement is inspiring evidence of a sincere and widespread awakening from this era of forgetfulness and neglect.

Its general purpose is to perpetuate thru all future generations, the name and influence and ideals of General Lee, not thru lifeless marble, but by carrying on the work for which he sacrificed his life.

Its specific lines of action are four:

First. The raising of a general Lee Memorial Endowment to enable his University to meet its rapidly enlarging opportunities and become more and more worthy of its great name and lofty lineage.

Second. The second is the sacred task of enlarging and dignifying the Lee Chapel and Mausoleum and furnishing it with intelligent and loyal custodians that the stream of reverend pilgrims to the South's most sacred shrine, now rapidly becoming a flood of thousands each month may be suitably welcomed and instructed. This is the special task of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Third. The third is the equipment and endowment of the Lee Memorial School of Civil and Highway Engineering. General Lee's first progressive step as an educator, in an exclusively classical era and section, was to found this school of engineering. The United Confederate Veterans, assisted by the Sons of Confederate Veterans have appointed a national committee, of which President Henry Louis Smith, of the University, is Executive Secretary. They hope soon to raise an adequate endowment and to erect in sight of General's Lee's tomb, a stately and beautiful Lee Memorial Building to house his School of Engineering. The work is already under way.

Fourth. The fourth objective of the Lee Memorial Movement is to re-establish an dendow the Lee School of Journalism which, owing to the povrty of the times, was discontinued a few years after the death of its founder.

Facing a stormy era of social and economic reconstruction, General Lee, with a prophet's insight and a statesman's wisdom, strove to furnish to his stricken and bewildered people a nursery of high-minded and broadly-trained leadership.

By re-establishing his School of Journalism we may share his spirit, carry out his purpose, and furnish to our no less stormy and bewildered era a stream of trained journalists, which, issung from his home and tomb and institution shall lead the public opinion of the nation along the lofty paths of his own broad-minded and unselfish patriotsm.

It is peculiarly fitting that this work has been undertaken by the editors of the South as their tribute to the many sided greatness of the soldier-statesman who, a generation ahead of his times, first recognized the place of the journalist in modern civilization, and founded the first school of journalism in America

Their enterprise, thus carried out, will accomplish a three-fold purpose. It will raise a more fitting monument than any pile of lifeless marble, however splendid and costly to the memory of General Lee; it will furnish to future generations a much needed and most fruitful nursery of patriotic leadership; and it will uplift and inspire the whole South by bringing this newer and busier generation into close contact for awhile with the ideal virtues of the Old South as embodied in the matchless character of Robert Edward Lee, who fifty years ago, sacrificed his mortal life that his life work might thus become immortal.

RELATION OF OUR BIG CORN CROP TO OUR MEAT SUPPLYING POWER

Promise of a corn crop of 3,152,000,000 bushels in the United States alone coupled with recent favorable reports on world wheat and rice crops suggests, says the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York, that the world's supply of bread and meat will be little below normal despite the shortage in the wheat fields of Russia. A 3,000,000,000 bushel corn crop in the United States alone means probably 4,000,000,000 bushels for the entire world, for the United States usually produces three-fourths of the worlds corn outturn

And this big corn crop with us means in turn an unusually big meat supply, especially of pork, for a large part of the corn of the United States is fed to swine on the farms where it is grown and the meat thus produced distributed to all parts of the world in far greater value than that of the corn in the natural state. With the changed conditions of production and transportation in Europe resulting from the war, the demand of the world upon the United States for bread and meat has continued down to the present time and the promise of of an abnormally large corn crop indicates that we shall be able to respond to the world demand for meat as well as breadstuffs. Already in nine months of the current year for which figures are now available, we have exported more corn than in any full year since 1906, while the quantity going in the form of pork products in the current year is 20 per cent greater than in the same months of 1920, though the value is probably less by reason of the reduction in prices. Even at the reduced prices of wheat and corn the exports of pork products ,chiefly produced from corn, will be nearly $300,000,000 in value and the corn exported in the natural state approximately $100,000,000. The value of the pork products exported from the United States in the past decade exceeds $3,000,000,000 and of corn in the natural state about $400,000,000. The wide distribution of our corn in the form of pork is illustrated by the fact that the exports of bacon in 1920 went to 90 different countries and colonies, hams to 85, lard 88, and sausage 83 countries and colonies.

The tremendousness of our corn crop, three-fourths of that of the world, accounts, adds the bank's statement, for the fact that we have far more swine than any other country, for swine are the most convenient process of transforming corn into human food, especially for exportation, and corn is the most useful food for swine, except for the production of the "bacon hog" which is chiefly fed on the smaller grains, wheat, rye, barley, etc., with an admixture of dairy products, and as a consequence the "bacon hog" producing areas are those lying north of the corn belt of the world but producing ample supplies of the smaller grains above named. This close relation of the number of swine to the supply of corn as their best food for fattening purposes has resulted in a growth in the number of swine in the United States coincidental with the growth in corn production and as a consequence the United States a lone has about one-half of the swine of the world while it produces about three-fourths of the corn of the world.

It is only in very recent years that our corn crop has crossed the 3,000,000,000 bushel line or that of the worlds crop output the 4,000,000,000 bushel mark. The world was slow in adopting this new food grain which Columbus carried back from Haiti under the native name of "mabiz" on his first return voyage but it gradually spread through southern Europe where it was designated as "maize" in recognition of its Haitian title above named, and after its introduction in southern Europe extended slowly over the other continents. At present the corn crop of the world is normally: United States 3,000,000,000 bushels, Europe as a whole 500,000,000, Argentina 300,000,000, Asia as a whole 100,000,000, and Africa about 75,000,000 The corn crop of the United States has been stated as holding first rank in the value of our farm outturn, hay ranking second, cotton third, and wheat fourth.

Milk, the Greatest Food

In the preservation of foods, an art which has reached considerable perfection in these days, it is interesting to note how important a part is played by opposite forces of nature.

For instance, after milk is obtained from the cow it is a great stride toward keeping it pure, to use "cold" (in the form of natural ice generally) to bring the temperature promptly down until near the freezing point.

Later, however, an opposite plan is essential. By prolonged heating of the milk to a moderately high temperature the bacteria or germs which are unhealthful are killed and the milk, unchanged in its digestibility, is rendered safe for use by the infant or invalid.

Both of these methods are used in their amplest form in the preparation of Horlick's Malted Milk, so as to obtain the highest purity of the food.

The absence of moisture is an efficient safeguard against the growth of bacteria and it also makes the product capable of being taken easily to all parts of the world.

It was no little achievement of Horlick's (who originated malted milk) to make a product which retains all the nutritive value of malted grain and rich milk and which produces at a moment's notice a food-drink that is sustaining invigorating and also delicious to the taste.

Any team wishing to arrange a game may do so by getting in touch with Manager Nelson Duffey, 203 South Fairfax street, or by 'phone Alexandria 740-J.

Navy Crushes Army, 7-0 In Muddy Battle

New York, Nov. 28.—Upon an afternoon that was ideal for ducks, fish, seals, porpoises, umbrella manufactures, bootleggers and pneumonia. Navy blue arose magnificently above Army gray at the Polo Seas for the third successive year.

No less than 46,000 of the beauty and chivalry, drenched and bedraggled, dripping and disconsolate, with wrecked hats and ruined cloaks, saw Conroy supplement Steve Barchet's mighty running by skidding over for the only touchdown of the game shortly after the second period opened.

So the score again was 7 to 0 in the Navy's favor, just as it was a year ago, and once again the stronger, better finished machine triumphed by superior play. Navy prows were at home upon a field slightly damper than the Atlantic ocean and many parts of the Pacific, and for two great marches, or, rather, cruises, they split asunder the billowy mud and the Army line. With Koehler's trudgeon working in mid-ocean form the Navy advance through the greater part of the first and second periods was more than any mere landsman, shut off from any seafaring existence, could hope to check.

Barchet and Koehler must have worn chains or else have adopted the web-footed process of the duck, for there were occasions on these two drives when they held their feet beyond all understanding above the slippery, treacherous turf. Only a seafaring clan could have reached port under such conditions where surely one of the two long drives deserved to score—and win.

As it was the Army, outclassed through the greater part of the game, suddenly turned upon their tormentors with three minutes to play, and with the fast flying French in full blast carried the ball to the Navy's seven yard line before the march was halted in the nick of Navy time.

The Navy blue waved above the Army gray, but above them both was a dull, muddy brown of mother earth that soon turned twenty-two athletes into charging figures of mud and goo.

K. K. K. Plans Cleanup For Ardmore, Okla.

Admore, Okla., Nov. 28—"We are going ot clean up Ardmore and do the job right."

So says the Ku Klux Klan in full-page advertisements set forth what the klan conceives to be the general situation here, the causes and the remedies proposed and serve notice "once and for all that evildoers in this city must desist to the end that the black stain of shame shall be forever wiped from the good name of Ardmore."

Ardmore was the scene of the Jake Hamon-Clara Smith tragedy.

There is in Ardmore a large element of population which, while by no means supporting Ku Klux Klan methods, is in thorough sympathy with a clean-up campaign. Just what will be the next move of the klan is awaited here with deep interest. There is a general belief that something sensational will follow the advertisements, placingg ardmore once more on the front page of the American press.

Noted Criminal Lawyer Victim of Automobile

New York, Nov. 28.—Robert M. Moore noted criminal lawyer, died early today as a result of injuries received last night when struck by an automobile near his home on West Ninety-sixth street. Joseph Dempsey, driver of the machine, was arrested on a charge of homicide.

Mr. Moore was 55 years old, and for more than 20 years had been prominently identified with the practice of criminal law in this city. He first came into prominenece in his defense of Samuel J. Kennedy, dentist, charged with the murder in August, 1898, of Miss Dollie Reynolds. Kennedy was convicted in his first trial but freed in 1901 through efforts by Mr. Moore.

Mr. Moore appeared as counsel for Albert J. Patrick, lawyer, charged with the murder of William Marsh Rice, elderly and wealthy widower, in the latter's apartments in September, 1900. The prosecution contended that Patrick engaged Charles Jones, Rice's valet, to chloroform him Convicted of murder in 1902, Patrick through Mr. Moore, fought the case for four years until his sentence was commuted by Governor Higgins in 1906. Patrick was pardoned in 1912

POSTMISTRESS CAN WED AND STILL HOLD OFFICE

Washington, Nov. 28.—No longer will the village postmistress have to choose between her job and matrimony. She may have both, so Postmaster Geenral Will Hays has just ruled, following a personal appeal from Mrs. Helen H. Gardner, member of the Civil Service Commission.

There has been no law on the subject, but heretofore the practice in the Postoffice Department when a postmistress marries has been to require that she secure a new appointment, execute a new bond or pass a civil service examination in competition with others seeking the office.

Mrs. Gardner termed it an "obviously unjust condition." The opinion of the solicitor of the department was asked and his recommendation on which the Post Master General acted, was not only that there was no legal obstacle other than departmental rulings, but that the old regulations were a restriction upon marriage and therefore "against public policy."

Foch Meets Red Tomahawk

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 28.—Marshal Ferdinnad Foch smoked the pipe of peace here today with Chief Red Tomahawk, cementing forever the friendship of the Dakotah Sioux Indians and the French nation. The presentation of the pipe of peace was part of a tumultuous reception given the French soldier by thousands of persons from many towns in Western North Dakota.

HERRICK TO START PAPER.

Perry, Okla., Nov. 28.—Congressman Manuel Herrick, of Oklahoma, will start a weekly newspaper at Washington called Retribution to answer his critics, he announced here today. Herrick recently gained considerable "fame" by an alleged beauty contest in Washington, following which a New York chorus girl sued him for breach of promise.

The Oklahoman said his newspaper office would probably ge in the Mechanics building at Washington and asserted the paper would be a "hot baby." He said he was now spending most of his time working on libel suits against newspapers.

MOTHER WORRIED ABOUT HIS HEALTH

Mrs. Parkr Says Her Boy Robert Was Frail and Delicate But He Now Feels Splendid

"I wouldn't take all the money in the State for the good Tanlac has done for my son Robert, "said Mrs. J. E. Parker, Clifton Forge, Va.

"When Robert began taking Tanlac two months ago he was frail and delicate but today he is a strong, robust boy. I never saw such a big change in anybody in my life. He was hardly eating enough to keep a baby alive and was so weak and run down he could neiher study nor play to do any good. He had no color in his face and complained of headache nearly all the time.

"I was so worried over him that I decided to take him out of school but, luckily, I started him on Tanlac. He doesn't seem to have a trouble in the world now and is the very picture of health, and only a mother can know how happy and grateful I am for the wonderful change n my son."

Tanlac is sold in Alexandria by Edgar Warfield, Jr., and by leading druggists everywhere.

THE SLOUUCHY MAN NEEDS A LIFT

Has Clogged Blood and Should Take Gude's Pepto-Mangan

The man who walks wth a slouch usually has a heavy, dull expresson on his face. The eyelids droop in a lazy, languid way and he goes around feeling dead tired most of the time. Bad blood, all clogged up with poisons from the system, makes a man feel that way.

That man with bad blood has let himself get in a rundown condition. He has overdone somehow, either physically by straining, trying to do too much, or mentally, by worrying, doing without sufficient sleep. He needs new blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken in regular doses every day is just the right blood builder. It drives off all the poisons. It makes blood, rich and red. When the blood gets back to normal, the color improves and the eyes brighten. It braces a man up.

Druggists sell it in liquid or convenient tablet form. The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on each package. Advertisement.

Marshal Foch as Guest of American Legion Sets New Globe Trotting Record

Generalissimo of Allied Armies Travels 25,000 Miles in 60 Days

Ferdinand Foch, Marshal of France, has proved himself to be the youngest and liveliest man of three score years and ten that the world has ever seen. The commander-in-chief of the allied armies is now being rolled around the country at a rate beyond the dreams of a Jules Verne, and will soon return to France with a new record for intrepid globe-trotting.

The itinerary laid out for the Marshal by the American Legion's reception committee calls for 25,000 miles in sixty days. To do it, the transportation facilities of the country have been placed at the Legion's complete disposal. It's "right of way" on every line for the "American Legion Special for Marshal Foch."

Phineas Fogg, the hero of "Around the World in Eighty Days," is well outclassed by this little man from France. The boots he had on when he left the White House, for the official visit to President Harding, which marked the start of his journey through the states, were more than the regulation boots of a general officer in the Army of France—they were the modern equivalent of the mythical Seven League Boots. The Marshal's boots were to see twenty leagues a day as a regular performance; 416 miles every 24 hours, 17 miles every hour.

Not until noon on Wednesday, December 14, will the American Legion bid its guest good-bye. And when the Marshal stands on the deck of the great French liner, and watches the sky-line of New York fade out into the New World horizon, he will be carrying memories of as strenuous a campaign as ever was waged on the Marne; of toastmasters by the score, of honorary degrees, of a host of station masters and trainmen, and inspections, corner stones laid, and of slices of America running all the way from New England's rock-bound coast to the sunny slopes of bonny California. He will have seen the great wheat fields of the Dakotas, the vast plains of Texas, and the plantations of the Southland; a good deal more, it is safe to say, than it is given to the average American citizen to see in all his lifetime.

Only a few weeks ago, the American Legion brought Marshal Foch to the United States as the guest of tht Legion and began piloting him around this country. At first the officials of the Legion were careful about making the Marshal's trip one that would not prove too strenuous for him. But they found that the man who led the allied troops to victory in the World War was a great deal more strenuous than they had estimated. For Marshal Foch said he wanted to see the United States from top to bottom and from one side to the other, and that too fast a pace could not be set for him. Therefore a trip which had at first been set for about three weeks was extended to seven weeks and a plan of travel mapped out which is taking the Marshal all around the United States.

Marshal Foch landed in this country October 28 and was formally received by the National Reception Committee of the American Legion of which Alton T. Roberts of Marquette, Michigan, is Chairman, and Franklin D'Olier of Philadelphia, Past Commander of the American Legion, is Vice Chairman.

From New York, on a special train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, he went to Washington, Baltimore, Kansas City, where he attended the annual convention of the American Legion; to St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburg and back to Washington in time for the Armistice Day Ceremonies at Arlington Cemetery.

Thence, he went to New Haven, seeing the Yale-Princeton game. There he received the degree of LL.D.; to Providence where Brown conferred another degree; to Bos... where Harvard conferred still another.

Then he went back to Washington and finally returned to New York.

In each city, he received a rousing welcome and was on the go from early morning till late at night. When he reached New York at the end of his first tour, the newspapermen asked him, at the home of de Lancey Kountze, whether he was tired. His reply was:

"Tired, No. Any man who went through the world war can never feel tired."

And then the Marshal straightway approved a new plan for his complete Western trip which includes: Richmond, Va.; Mason City, Ia.; the home of National Commander, Hanford MacNider of the American Legion; Minneapolis, St. Paul, Bismarck, N.D.; Billings, Mont.; Spokane, Wash.; Seattle, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los An...eles, Ca... Grand Canyon, Ariz.; ...as; New Orleans; Montgo... ; Atlanta, Ga.; Spartanburg, S. C.; Charlotte, N. C.; thence back to Washington. Leaving Washington, he goes to West Point, Albany, N. Y.; Ottawa, Ont.; Montreal, Que.; and finally back to New York City by way of Vermont and Springfield, Mass.

The Marshal and his party reach New York December 13th and sail for France on the following day.

Never before has a distinguished visitor undertaken such an extensive tour in so limited a time. This is what Marshal Foch has to say:

"I enjoy it all immensely. I am seeing the people I love most, next to my own countrymen. It does not tire me. It exhilirates me. I am seeing my comrades of the American Legion, most of whom fought under me with their illustrious General Pershing. It is a magnificent trip. I am delighted."

SPORTS

Yesterday on Baggett's field before a large crowd, the Crystal A. C., added another to their long string of victories by taking the Rosebuds in camp for a 26 to 6 victory. Snellings and Cockrell the Crystals flashy ends played stella ball, the former scoring two touchdowns from drill work and adding the two extra points. The backfield composed of Owen, Bayliss, Otis and Cornell, pulled some real professional "stuff." Mills, the shining light of Rosebuds, showed his worth by scoring their only touchdown. Next Sunday the "C" lads met the strong Bloomingdale A. C., of Washington. Come out and root for the Crystals. All Crystals are requested to report Tuesday night at 6:30 for practice.

Any team wishing to arrange a game may do so by getting in touch with Manager Nelson Duffey, 203 South Fairfax street, or by 'phone Alexandria 740-J.

Navy Crushes Army, 7-0 In Muddy Battle

New York, Nov. 28.—Upon an afternoon that was ideal for ducks, fish, seals, porpoises, umbrella manufactures, bootleggers and pneumonia. Navy blue arose magnificently above Army gray at the Polo Seas for the third successive year.

No less than 46,000 of the beauty and chivalry, drenched and bedraggled, dripping and disconsolate, with wrecked hats and ruined cloaks, saw Conroy supplement Steve Barchet's mighty running by skidding over for the only touchdown of the game shortly after the second period opened.

So the score again was 7 to 0 in the Navy's favor, just as it was a year ago, and once again the stronger, better finished machine triumphed by superior play. Navy prows were at home upon a field slightly damper than the Atlantic ocean and many parts of the Pacific, and for two great marches, or, rather, cruises, they split asunder the billowy mud and the Army line. With Koehler's trudgeon working in mid-ocean form the Navy advance through the greater part of the first and second periods was more than any mere landsman, shut off from any seafaring existence, could hope to check.

Barchet and Koehler must have worn chains or else have adopted the web-footed process of the duck, for there were occasions on these two drives when they held their feet beyond all understanding above the slippery, treacherous turf. Only a seafaring clan could have reached port under such conditions where surely one of the two long drives deserved to score—and win.

As it was the Army, outclassed through the greater part of the game, suddenly turned upon their tormentors with three minutes to play, and with the fast flying French in full blast carried the ball to the Navy's seven yard line before the march was halted in the nick of Navy time.

The Navy blue waved above the Army gray, but above them both was a dull, muddy brown of mother earth that soon turned twenty-two athletes into charging figures of mud and goo.

K. K. K. Plans Cleanup For Ardmore, Okla.

Admore, Okla., Nov. 28—"We are going ot clean up Ardmore and do the job right."

So says the Ku Klux Klan in full-page advertisements set forth what the klan conceives to be the general situation here, the causes and the remedies proposed and serve notice "once and for all that evildoers in this city must desist to the end that the black stain of shame shall be forever wiped from the good name of Ardmore."

Ardmore was the scene of the Jake Hamon-Clara Smith tragedy.

There is in Ardmore a large element of population which, while by no means supporting Ku Klux Klan methods, is in thorough sympathy with a clean-up campaign. Just what will be the next move of the klan is awaited here with deep interest. There is a general belief that something sensational will follow the advertisements, placingg ardmore once more on the front page of the American press.

Noted Criminal Lawyer Victim of Automobile

New York, Nov. 28.—Robert M. Moore noted criminal lawyer, died early today as a result of injuries received last night when struck by an automobile near his home on West Ninety-sixth street. Joseph Dempsey, driver of the machine, was arrested on a charge of homicide.

Mr. Moore was 55 years old, and for more than 20 years had been prominently identified with the practice of criminal law in this city. He first came into prominenece in his defense of Samuel J. Kennedy, dentist, charged with the murder in August, 1898, of Miss Dollie Reynolds. Kennedy was convicted in his first trial but freed in 1901 through efforts by Mr. Moore.

Mr. Moore appeared as counsel for Albert J. Patrick, lawyer, charged with the murder of William Marsh Rice, elderly and wealthy widower, in the latter's apartments in September, 1900, The prosecution contended that Patrick engaged Charles Jones, Rice's valet, to chloroform him Convicted of murder in 1902, Patrick, through Mr. Moore, fought the case for four years until his sentence was commuted by Governor Higgins in 1906. Patrick was pardoned in 1912

Washington, Nov. 28.—No longer will the village postmistress have to choose between her job and matrimony. She may have both, so Postmaster Geenral Will Hays has just ruled, following a personal appeal from Mrs. Helen H. Gardner, member of the Civil Service Commission.

There has been no law on the subject, but heretofore the practice in the Postoffice Department when a postmistress marries has been to require that she secure a new appointment, execute a new bond or pass a civil service examination in competition with others seeking the office.

Mrs. Gardner termed it an "obviously unjust condition." The opinion of the solicitor of the department was asked and his recommendation on which the Post Master General acted, was not only that there was no legal obstacle other than departmental rulings, but that the old regulations were a restriction upon marriage and therefore "against public policy."

Foch Meets Red Tomahawk

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 28.—Marshal Ferdinnad Foch smoked the pipe of peace here today with Chief Red Tomahawk, cementing forever the friendship of the Dakotah Sioux Indians and the French nation. The presentation of the pipe of peace was part of a tumultuous reception given the French soldier by thousands of persons from many towns in Western North Dakota.

The Children's Star

Children just can't help liking Tom Meighan. In his latest Paramount picture, "A Prince There Was," little Charlotte Jackson's affection for the well known star needs no prompting from the director. It is the real thing.

HERRICK TO START PAPER.

Perry, Okla., Nov. 28.—Congressman Manuel Herrick, of Oklahoma, will start a weekly newspaper at Washington called Retribution to answer his critics, he announced here today. Herrick recently gained considerable "fame" by an alleged beauty contest in Washington, following which a New York chorus girl sued him for breach of promise.

The Oklahoman said his newspaper office would probably ge in the Mechanics building at Washington and asserted the paper would be a "hot baby." He said he was now spending most of his time working on libel suits against newspapers.

MOTHER WORRIED ABOUT HIS HEALTH

Mrs. Parkr Says Her Boy Robert Was Frail and Delicate But He Now Feels Splendid

"I wouldn't take all the money in the State for the good Tanlac has done for my son Robert, "said Mrs. J. E. Parker, Clifton Forge, Va.

"When Robert began taking Tanlac two months ago he was frail and delicate but today he is a strong, robust boy. I never saw such a big change in anybody in my life. He was hardly eating enough to keep a baby alive and was so weak and run down he could neiher study nor play to do any good. He had no color in his face and complained of headache nearly all the time.

"I was so worried over him that I decided to take him out of school but, luckily, I started him on Tanlac. He doesn't seem to have a trouble in the world now and is the very picture of health, and only a mother can know how happy and grateful I am for the wonderful change n my son."

Tanlac is sold in Alexandria by Edgar Warfield, Jr., and by leading druggists everywhere.

THE SLOUUCHY MAN NEEDS A LIFT

Has Clogged Blood and Should Take Gude's Pepto-Mangan

The man who walks wth a slouch usually has a heavy, dull expresson on his face. The eyelids droop in a lazy, languid way and he goes around feeling dead tired most of the time. Bad blood, all clogged up with poisons from the system, makes a man feel that way.

That man with bad blood has let himself get in a rundown condition. He has overdone somehow, either physically by straining, trying to do too much, or mentally, by worrying, doing without sufficient sleep. He needs new blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken in regular doses every day is just the right blood builder. It drives off all the poisons. It makes blood, rich and red. When the blood gets back to normal, the color improves and the eyes brighten. It braces a man up.

Druggists sell it in liquid or convenient tablet form. The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on each package. Advertisement.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

Triumph of the Tongue—A lady was lately indicted at the Session in New York, for being a common scold. On the trial, however, she was proven to be an uncommon great scold and not a common scold within the meaning of the law. The jury, therefore, by direction of the court, acquitted her.

FARMOGRAMS

By "The Drifter."

The past week with its warm weather and intermittent showers brought a feeling of spring. While this warm spell may serve well for small grain that was sowed late, it does not hold much promise for the crop generally. It is well known that the hard winter is the best for small grain. For The Drifter to attempt to express his appreciation to the number of farmers whose homes he has visited this week, and from whom he has received such cordial receptions would only be a sentiment poorly expressed. Rather let these columns each week convey to our farmers something of material benefit.

This column will carry a comment of special interest to farmers next week on the tenant farmer. This subject has been written on by many of our best agricultural writers, but the need is felt for an unbiased comment which will apply to this particular section of the Old Dominion.

Our old friend, Mr. Fred M. Stratton, of Agnewville, Prince William county, reports a litter of fourteen pigs from a purebred O. I. C. sow. Mr. Stratton is a firm believer in raising purebred livestock and his farm displays an example of thrift that might well be copied by some of our best farmers. The Guernsey is the best all round cow for the farmer, Mr. Stratton claims, basing his assertion on the fact that this breed is typical of the kind desired by our farmers as a family cow. First, because the milk contains a high per cent. of butter fat when a general average is taken; second, the Guernsey is not as susceptible to weather changes as some other breeds.

An excellent example of diversified farming may be seen on Landonbon Farm, owned by Dr. William Thornwall Davis, of Washington, D. C. The manager, Mr. Catlett, is a farmer thoroughly versed in the subject of farming, and displays a knowledge of livestock and poultry rarely found in a specialist on diversified farming. Crop rotation is being worked out in three, five and seven year rotations; and sufficient plant food is being put in the land by turning under cowpeas, soy beans, rye and crimson clover. When Mr. Catlett took charge of Landonbon, the farm was very much run down, but the effect of systematic management is apparent in the fields, buildings, poultry and livestock.

Landonbon is specializing in single comb White Leghorns, improved Black Essex hogs, and Holstein cattle. Although the dairy part of the work is not yet in operation, the decision is made that Holsteins will be the breed. It would be hard to find a finer lot of White Leghorns than those owned by Dr. Davis.

A black Essex sow has a litter of ten fine pigs. The fattening pen contains a number of porkers almost ready for the market. One might spend a month on this historic old place and still find something new.

At Springfield Farm, The Drifter was received by a brother-in-law of the owner, Mr. J. C. Frye. Before any mention was made of the farming operations, a box bush hedge over 200 years old was pointed out. This hedge is by far the largest of any The Drifter has ever seen, towering above the head of the average man, and averaging about eight feet in diameter per bush. It is stated that thousands of people have visited Springfield Farm to see this hedge and hundreds have tried to buy it. Springfield Farm was the home of Martin Cockburn, who married the daughter of George Mason, the owner and builder of historic old Gunston Hall, now the property of Mr. Louis Hertle.

Springfield is essentially a truck farm, from fifty to sixty acres being put in truck each year, and twenty to twenty-five acres planted to field crops for feed. Mr. Frye is going into the hay raising game on a large scale. He has just seeded about fifteen acres of Timothy and expects to add more next year. Meat, milk, butter and eggs are produced in sufficient quantity for home use and a goodly portion is left to carry to market. Well does this farm carry out our slogan to "Live at home and board at the same place."

An item of more than passing interest is the giant poplar at Poplar View on Gunston Cove. Poplar View is a little headline jutting out into Gunston Cove and is socalled because the river captains used the giant poplar as a guide in steering a southwesterly course from Marshall Hall. The poplar is really four separate trees springing from one tap root. They stand more than seventy-five feet in height and can be seen for many miles up and down the river.

Is blue ribbon corn raised in northern Virginia? Assuredly, my friends, you must take a trip out through the rural districts to see. Mr. J. Frank Milstead, of Hoadley, Prince William county, is a blue ribbon winner of many years duration, both at the county fairs and the corn shows. As a prize winner, Mr. Milstead is one to be reckoned with, as his farm well gives evidence of. System and good judgment is shown in the general arrangement of the farm. The land is conceded the most highly improved in the community. This speaks well for Prince William and should be followed by their neighbors. Why not make Mr. Milstead exert a little more effort to retain his laurels.

Well, what are you going to do about that fall spraying of the orchard? Is it too late? Not yet, friend farmer. Now is the time to get in your shot at the pests infecting your fruit trees. Get a good fall spray and use it. You owe that much to the trees, if not to the family who consume the product. While you may spray in the spring, you will find that fall spraying is just as important as the spring spray, and even more so, since the fall spray has the assistance of the colder elements in eliminating the insects that cut the fruit crop.

You may say the old orchard is not worth spraying, but that is what you said last year and the year before and so on back. You are considering putting out a young orchard. Why not cut the old trees down and not have them in the way? You say that you can get the fruit until the young orchard begins to bear. You are right, but why not get the best out of the old. It is good for many years to come perhaps, and the present cost of labor, nursery products, etc., make it impracticable to plunge too deep at the present.

The small grain crops are showing up well over nearly all of the surrounding counties. Very few farmers report the necessity of reseeding.

Lebannon Farm, property of Mr. Claude E. Miller, of New York, has an excellent crop of wheat. This farm has been suggested as an excellent location for a hospital for disabled soldiers, while it is situated well away from the hurly-burly of the city, it has the added advantage of being located on a long river front; which greatly increases its desirability.

Such a location would be a Godsend to many of our disabled service men. The advantages of the out-of-doors cannot be to strongly emphasized at this time. Give them fresh air combined with the best medical care and see the difference. The nation owes this much to these men.

One noticeable benefit that our friend Mr. Pierce Reid, the road commissioner of Fairfax, is doing is working the roads up for the winter. Fairfax has room for considerable improvement along this particular line. But Mr. Farmer the guns are aimed at you, because until you demand better roads there is small chance of a benevolent charity generously bestowing these blessing upon you. Why not put up a clean cut fight for good roads and then for better roads.

Proper Feeding of the Cow.

Poorly nourished cows give birth to weak puny calves which are hard to raise. The feeding of the calf, therefore, begins before it is born. The food elements necessary for the development of the calf are taken into the stomach of the cow, digested, assimilated, and transmitted to the calf through the unbilical cord, the connection between the mother and the calf.

It is evident that if the cow does not receive food enough to keep herselfe in thrifty condition and at the same time develop her calf, both she and the calf must suffer. In endeavoring to raise good, thrifty calves many dairymen handicap themselves at the start by not properly feeding pregnant cows. Such cows should have an abundance of palatable and succulent or juicy food in order to insure good body flesh and a healthy, thrifty condition at calving time. The calves will then be well developed, strong and sturdy, and ready to respond normally to proper feed and care.

It is to be assumed htat the calf is not to be raised by sucking the cow but it is to be fed by hand. The longer it sucks, therefore, the more difficult it will be to teach it to drink. On the other hand, the first or (colostrum) milk of the cow possesses properties which stimulate the calf's stomach and other digestive organs to action. Colostrum is nature's physic, and for this reason the young calf should always receive its mother's milk first. The calf is sometimes weak at birth, and for this reason should have nourishment as soon as possible.

It is usually easier to induce the calf to suck the cow than to try to make it drink from a pail. Because of these facts most dairymen prefer to let the calf remain with its mother for about 48 hours after birth. An additional advantage to this practice is that the dam will carefully dry the calf by licking within the first few hours of its life.

In the case of a weak calf, or one that does not gain strength readily it may be best to allow it to remain longer than 48 hours, although under such circumstances it is sometimes difficult to teach the calf to drink, and serious trouble may result from its failure to obtain food. It is desirable that the calf be in thrifty, vigorous condition when it is taught to drink. It should be kept without food for at least 12 hours, at the end of which time it will be hungry and will usually drink from the pail much more readily than when not hungry. Warm, fresh milk from the mother should be put into a clean pail and held near the floor, in front of the calf, which will generally begin to nose about the pail. Once it gets a taste of milk, it will usually drink without trouble. Often, however, it is necessary for the attendant to put one or two fingers in the calf's mouth, drawing the head down into the milk as the calf begins to suck the fingers. The calf in this way gets a taste of the milk and generally begins to drink without further coaxing. If not, the process must be repeated. Sometimes, the calf cannot be induced to drink in this way and force has to be resorted to. In such a case, the feeder, facing in the same direction as the calf, should back the animal into a corner. The pail of milk should be held in one hand and the nose of the calf grapsed with the other, two fingers being in its mouth. The nose of the calf is then forced into the milk, when it will usually begin to drink. Sometimes a valuable calf, too weak at birth either to suck the cow or to drink from a pail, can ge saved by feeding from a bottle either with or without a nipple.

Cleanliness is absolutely essential to the raising of calves. This equally necessary in feed, pens, bedding, and pails or utensils. All milk fed should be fresh and clean, and the same is true of other feeds. Calf-pens should always be kept clean and filled with plenty of dry bedding. Great care should be taken in washing the milk pails. These should be thoroughly scalded with boiling water or sterilized with steam, if possible. Discarded feed should be removed from the feed boxes, which should be thoroughly brushed and cleaned each day. Attention to these details is the best preventive of disease. Nearly all disorders or diseases of the calf are caused either directly or indirectly by lack of cleanliness.

Certain infections causing chronic diarrhea or scours, either contagious or otherwise, are discussed under the head of diseases. But there are many disturbances of the calf's stomach and digestive system which hinder growth and development that are caused by bacteria. Filth and dirt are the natural breeding places of bacteria. Elimination of filth usually means freedom from disease. Milk from cows infected with a communicable disease, such as tuberculosis, should always be pasteurized (heated to 145 degrees F. and held at temperature for 30 minutes), before it is fed to calves.

From time to time The Drifter will give information through these columns that will serve as a guide to beginners, and possibly assist the experienced dairyman and stock-raiser in their respective work.

What Is The Telephone Company?

IT is an organization of 1704 Virginia men and women banded together to give the people of Virginia the best telephone service brains and energy and effort can make possible.

These people—many of whom have dedicated their lives to this service—are nearly all natives of this State. They are citizens of your cities and towns—they are your neighbors and friends.

The telephone is a regulated utility; the price of our service is controlled by state regulation. Our revenues being regulated, our expenses must be held in proportion. At no time during recent years, did our wages keep pace with those of other industries.

That condition still exists. But in spite of this limitation and the exacting requirements of war and reconstruction, Virginia's telephone people are now giving you a higher grade of service than at any time in the history of the system.

Clara Kimball YOUNG
In her latest and greatest photodramatic "hit"
"Straight From Paris"

At no period in her entire motion picture career has Clara Kimball Young ever been so bewitchingly beautiful, so wondrously gowned, so splendid in her dramatic powers as in this, Sada Cowan's latest story—"STRAIGHT FROM PARIS," a throbbing, ultra modern, ultra smart presentation that reaches the height of the cinema art.

If you paid the regular stage play prices to see Clara Kimball Young in 'STRAIGHT FROM PARIS' you wouldn't be paying enough for here is a photo-drama that in the might and beauty of the silent art surpasses many of the biggest stage plays of years.

A kaleidescope of dazzling scenes, an ensemble, of the finest talent, entrancingly staged with Clara Kimball Young at her best in "STRAIGHT FROM PARIS."

An American Doughboy In France

By ELLIOTT F. HOFFMAN
(Historia nof Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion.)
(For the Alexandria Gazette.)

In Germany

From Rachecourt, Belgium, we proceeded ot Eischen in the province of Luxembourg, where we spent Thanksgiving Day. Our Thanksgiving dinner consisted of canned beef, canned tomatoes, potatoes, bread, butter, and coffee, and a delicious apple dumpling for dessert. Several members of our company received pay while here, and shared with the rest of us the waffles and "hot dogs" which they were able to buy from the shopkeepers. We spent nearly a week in Eischen, during which time the commanding general inspected the regiment, which now included replacements to make good the number of men we had lost in battle; and it was there recorded that of the men who composed our regiment on the Rhine not 10 per cent had seen service in the line of battle. This doubtless applies also to the other regiments of the Rainbow Division, so badly was this division shot to pieces in the Argonne.

Leaving Eischenne, we hiked to Wolferdingen. everal of our number were unfortunate enough to get caught "hooking" nine from one of the shops. From here we marched on toward the German border, and late in the afternoon on December 2nd our regiment crossed the bridge that spans the Moselle river at Buser, thus entering the territory of defeated Germany. Although we were now on what they called sacred soil, we did not consider it necessary to remove our shoes, but tramped on as before.

We were instructed before entering Germany to have our rifles in our possession at all times; at no time, day or night, must we fail to have them at hand. This order, however, was not enforced after leaving Buser.

The Germans of the many villages in which we stopped seemed wholly unconcerned at our coming. They continued to perform the work of their daily routine as if we were not there. But, while apparently friendly to us, they seemed unable to suppress their hatred of the French, or "Frogs," as we called them. Many tmes dd we hear them say, "The French soldier s no good, but the American soldier, Ah! Ah! he is good," which was, of course nothing but German deception.

From Buser we passed on to Neiderzissen, on the Rhine, spending one or more nights in each of the following named villages: Meriden, Welshbiller, Dudeldorf, Manderschad, Potsbarn, Waldkenigan, Zermullon, and Wassernack And with only ten miles more to go before reaching our final destination, a number of us were examined by the physician and ordered to remain here until the ambulance arrived to take us to he field hospital The tags which the physician pinned on our overcoats read "F. U. O.," meaning fever, unknown origin.

The ambulance arrived shortly after our company had vacated the village, and we were carried to a small village in which was located field hospital 165. Upon our arrival we were examined and then quartered in very small rooms to await developments. These rooms had not heat or light and not even hay to sleep on. Needless to say we were extremely uncomfortable, lying there on the floor on a cold December night with only one blanket for covering; but with a burning fever of 100 degrees or more, we were half unconscious of our plight

On the next morning all save four of us were returned to our respective commands, while we four who were still running ratther high temprature were again examined Our tags were changedi to read "Flu," and with a mask over our mouth we were placed in an ambulance and carried to Evacuation Hospital No. 12, which was located in the city of Prum. Here we were re-examined, and this time the tag of the writer was once more changed. It now read "Tonsilitis." As all the boys in the ward to which he was assigned seemed to have foot trouble, it is impossible to say just what ailment he had—whether fever, "flu", tonsilitis, or "footsoritis."

In addition to having no bed to sleep in, we had very little medical attention. The attending physician rarely visited our ward; in fact, the writer fails to recall a single visit during the first few days of our stay in this hospital. However, better treatment was in store for us. A detachment of the army nurse corps arrived and soon began to set the hospital in order. White enamel beds were installed, clean bed linen was provided every day, and pajamas were furnished to the patients. The nurses sat in the ward all day watching our thin little flock. Every hour or so the nurse would take our temperature, and the physician was called whenever there was the slightest change for the worse. Of course no one was overanxious to get well, because we were in the vernacular of the doughboy, "sitting on the world."

After spending several weeks in this hospital, we were discharged and sent to a casual camp in the beautiful city of Trier, or Trures, as it is called by Germans. At the end of a two days' sojourn here a number of us were again sent to the hospital, this time the evacuation hospital. No. 10 at Tries. The "flu" was now beginning to claim its victims. All day long the ambulance brought sick soldiers there and all day long they buried them in the hospital yard, men that had been carried off by this treacherous disease. A handsome young fellow was brought in late one night and assigned to the cot next to the one the writer was occupying. While we sat up in our beds the next day and talked of home his face brightened as he told of his father and mother who were waiting so eagerly for his return. Over and over he read an old letter from his sweetheart and showed us her picture. During the night "Buddy" became very ill; on the next morning the stretcher bearers moved him into another ward. A few days later several of us from the ward stood at the window and saw them on a cold December afternoon bury the remains of "Buddy" in this same hospital yard.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Hurry Mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

LETTER FROM GOV. DAVIS

Leesburg, Va., Nov. 28.—The following letter was written by Governor Davis in reply to an inquiry from Robert C. Hart, esq., of Louisa County, Virginia, as to what his attitude would be, if elected to the U. S. Senate, to what is known in Congress as the "Agricultural Bloc."

"P. O. Box 1904
Richmond, Virginia.
October 24, 1921."

"Robert C. Hart, esq.,
Apple Grove, Va.
Dear Mr. Hart:

"I haye your letter making inquiry as to what my attitude will be towards what is known as the "Agricultural Bloc," should I be elected to the U. S. Senate.

"If elected to the United States Senate I shall make common cause with those who in Congress constitute the 'Agricultural Bloc." This bloc evidences the associated legislative effort of the members of Congress who seek to relieve our farmers of the grievous economic burdens under which they are staggering. Upon the success of agriculture all prosperity must be predicated; it is basic and as it prospers or suffers, so fares the nation.

With kind regards and best wishes, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
WESTMORELAND DAVIS,"

Admiral McLean Declares Maryland-Mutso Contention All Nonsense

Japan's view that the United States battleship Maryland ought to be scrapped, or that the Japanese battleship Mutsu ought to be preserved—a view which Hector C. Bywater, the English naval expert, declared in yesterday's Sun had come to him from authoritative Japanese sources, was declared by Rear Admiral Walter McLean, U. S. N., last night to be "all nonsense."

The Japanese are claiming, Mr. Bywater said, that the Mutsu was much nearer completion than the Maryland, which the United States was retaining; and were adding that the Maryland had been sent to sea suddenly without essential equipment including fire-control apparatus, "for reasons not unconnected with the conference."

"No battleship is ever completed when taken from the hands of the contractor," said Admiral McLean. "Every nation takes a ship out of the contractor's hands as soon as the contractor has done everything he can do, because the national treasury is paying him good money all the while he is working on the ship. The things left unfinished when the ship is taken from him are the things that only naval experts can do properly. No ship is ever finished when it goes into the water.

"If we had any ulterior motive in putting the Maryland into the water when we did, why didn't we do the same thing with the West Virginia? The whole thing is pure nonsense."

Yeast Vitamon Tablets Greatest Complexion Secret
Banishes Skin Eruptions, Puts On Firm Flesh.

Of What Use Are Beautiful Features if You Have an Ugly Skin, Flabby Flesh, Hollow Cheeks or a Scrawny Neck? Mastin's VITAMON Tablets are Positively Guaranteed to Give You New Health, Beauty and a More Rounded Face and Figure.
If you want to quickly clear your skin and complexion, put some firm, healthy flesh on your bones, increase your nerve force and power, and look and feel 100 per cent. better, simply try taking two of Mastin's tiny yeast VITAMON Tablets with each meal and watch results. Mastin's VITAMON Tablets contain highly concentrated yeast-vitamines as well as the two other still more important vitamines (Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble C). They positively will not upset the stomach or cause gas but, on the contrary, are a great aid to digestion, to overcome constipation and as a general conditioner of the whole system. Pimples, boils and skin eruptions seem to vanish like magic under their purifying influence, the complexion becomes fresh and beautiful, the cheeks rosy instead of pale, the lips red instead of colorless, the eyes bright instead of dull. So rapid and amazing are the results that success is absolutely guaranteed or the trial costs you nothing. Be sure to remember the name—Mastin's VI-TA-MON—the original and genuine yeast-vitamine tablet. There is nothing else like it, so do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get Mastin's VITAMON Tablets at all good druggists.

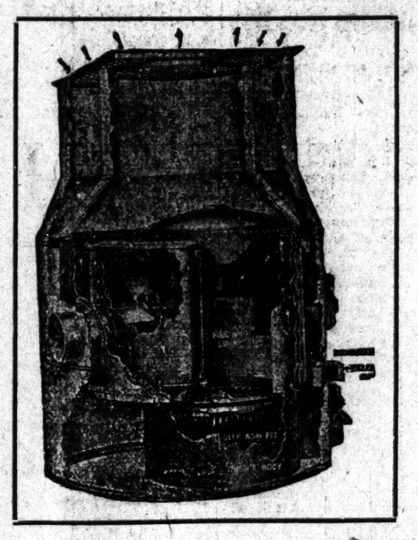
Protect Your Family This Winter
Bad, stormy weather carries with it a threat of dread disease and now is the time to make plans to protect your family against winter's rigors. Let us furnish an estimate on the cost of installing a new heating plant in your home today. We can save you untold trouble and worry.


Now is the best time to prepare your house for the damp, chill winds and the cold days that are sure to come. If you install a QUAKER FURNACE now, you'll not mind the time when "there's a blizzard on the way" because
"Quaker" Heat is Quicker Heat
QUAKER
"The Pipeless Furnace That's Built of Steel"
The Quaker Furnace is built of steel, which radiates heat three times as fast as cast iron. Yet the Quaker holds the heat longer because the firepot is lined with FIRE BRICK like the crucible of a blast furnace.
Quaker Heat is cleaner heat, too. The joints are riveted like a boiler. No cement to crack and crumble. Soot, ashes, dust and dirt positively cannot leak through. The hotter the furnace gets the tighter the joints become.
OTHER IMPORTANT FEATURES
The Quaker has an extra large water pan (with handy outside filler) which keeps the air moist and healthful. The firepot can't crack. The combustion chamber is extra large. The special hot blast saves fuel. Doors are ground EXACTLY to give perfect air-tight fit. Free catalog tells all about these and other Quaker improvements Send for it today.
Quaker Steel Pipeless Furnaces are easily installed in old or new homes. Only one register required. Made with 18, 22, 26, and 28 inch firepots. Delivered quickly from nearest wearhouse. Send for free catalog.
